PRIVACY POLICY

MTA receives information about our clients, former clients and prospects from the following sources:

- Information on applications or other forms;
- Information given to us orally or per e-mail; and
- Information about transactions with us or others.

We are committed to protecting your privacy and your non-public personal information. We do not sell or market your personal information. We maintain physical, electronic and procedural safeguards to guard your personal information. We hold our employees to strict standards of conduct regarding confidentiality, and employees who violate our privacy policy are subject to disciplinary process. We restrict access to your information to those employees who need to know that information to carry out their duties.

We do not disclose any personal information about our clients or former clients without the client's authorization, except as required by law. We may disclose the information we collect to employees and affiliates, and unaffiliated third parties as required by law. Third parties may include law enforcement agencies, government and regulatory authorities, and professionals such as our legal counsel and auditors, and we may disclose information for reasons such as audit purposes, prevention of fraud or money laundering, protection of confidentiality, compliance with laws, and to provide agreed upon products and services to you.

Third parties may also include service providers performing financial services for us (such as brokers and custodians) and service providers performing non-financial services for us (such as third parties performing computer related or data maintenance, marketing or other services for us). It is our policy to require all third party service providers that will receive information to sign strict confidentiality agreements agreeing to safeguard such information and use it only for the purpose it was provided.

PRIVACY POLICY UPDATES

From time to time, MTA may have to make changes to our privacy notice. An updated privacy policy will be posted on our website as soon as changes have been made. If you are concerned about how we use information, you should periodically check the "Privacy Policy" link at the bottom of our MTA home page.
